DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 3 is objected to because of the following informalities: in claim 3, lines 2 and 8, "an exposed inner dielectric section" and "a short distance" are unclear to how these relate to an exposed inner dielectric section and a short distance already recited in claims 1 and 2 respectively. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hosaka et al. (EP 1,246,300).

Hosaka et al. discloses a coaxial cable termination system (Figure 5) comprising a coaxial cable having an electrically conductive core, an inner dielectric concentrically surrounding the core, and an electrically conductive shield concentrically surrounding the inner dielectric, wherein the core has an exposed core section, wherein the shield has an exposed shield section, and wherein the coaxial cable has an exposed inner dielectric section extending between the exposed core section and the exposed shield section, an electrically core body (20) formed over the exposed core section and electrically connected thereto, and an electrically conductive shield body (10) formed over the exposed shield section and electrically connected thereto, wherein the core body and the shield body mutually have direct current electrical isolation with respect to each other. Hosaka et al. also discloses the core body and the shield body being mutually separated a short distance therebetween at the exposed inner dielectric section. Re claim 2, it has been held that during examination, the patentability of a product claim is determined by the novelty and nonobviousness of the claimed product itself without consideration of the process, being cast, for making it which is recited in the claim. In re Thorpe, 227 USPQ 964.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 8-12 are allowed.

4. Claims 3-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

5. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: the prior art of record does not teach or suggest a coaxial cable termination system comprising all the features as recited in the claims and in combination with the core body encompassing a portion of the exposed inner dielectric section, the shield body encompassing a portion of the exposed inner dielectric section, and with the coaxial cable substantially rigidly orienting the core body and the shield body in substantially mutually parallel relation to the core locally thereat (re claims 3 and 8).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 1 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
